Pope Pius Shows Improvement In Condition Today

Arises From Sick Bed For Brief Period—Receives Papal Secretary

DAYS OF COMPLETE REST ARE NEEDED

Oxygen Tent Is Removed After Improvement In Condition Is Revealed

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 26.—Stout-hearted and courageous after a pain-wracked night, Pope Pius rose from his sick-bed today for a brief period.

Turning aside the remonstrances of his physicians and aides, the 81-year-old pontiff, who yesterday suffered a heart attack that nearly ended his life, insisted upon being taken to his private library.

There he received Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli for a brief audience.

His holiness received the papal secretary of state less than an hour after dispensing with the oxygen tent, in which he was placed yesterday, and being placed in a movable bed.

After this change was made, Pius stubbornly commanded that he be taken to the private library on the floor below his sick room so that he might talk with Cardinal Pacelli, one of his most noted aides.

"Must Be Careful"

When a high prelate in the papal entourage demurred, saying "You must be careful," the Holy Father replied curtly:

"Better a vacant chair than a pope who does not fulfill the functions of a pope."

Previously a bulletin had been issued at 11:45 a. m. which concealed the discomfort the pope must have experienced.

This announcement stated:

"The Holy Father passed a tranquil night without undue disturbance. The betterment at which

Quite a number of local hunters were out bright and early Friday morning, expecting to find rabbit tracks plentiful in the newly fallen snow, but they were disappointed. Most of the rabbits were like a lot of people, waiting for somebody to beat a path. Last night, however, they ventured out of their holes and there were more tracks this morning. Fewer rabbits have been killed this year than last, according to hunters.

During the long winter evenings which are in prospect, members of Pa Newc's family ought to find time to do a little thinking on the future of New Castle. Every day one hears somebody remark that industries are needed. Granted. But what industries? Surely someone has a constructive thought. Send it in to Pa Newc, even if it is an industry that would only employ two people. Let's have something in the incubator besides hot air.

U. S. Delegation Leaves For Conference At Lima

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Bearing last-minute information on Nazi ambitions for Pan-American trade, the United States delegation to the eighth annual conference of American states was heading for Lima, Peru, today aboard the Grace Liner Santa Clara.

Before the ship pulled away from her North River pier Secretary of State Cordell Hull received a hurried report from Hugh R. Wilson, American ambassador to Germany, called home by President Roosevelt.

The delegates who sailed with Hull included Adolphe A. Berle, Jr., former city chamberlain; T. Henury Norweb, United States minister to the Dominican Republic; Alfred M. Landon, unsuccessful Republican candidate for president in 1936; Emilio Del Toro Cuevas, chief justice of the supreme court of Puerto Rico; Green H. Hackworth, legal advisor of the state department, and Rev. John F. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame University.

Wilson Heads For Warm Springs

After conferring with Hull, Ambassador Wilson left for Washington to discuss with officials there of anti-Jewish developments in the Reich. Later he will confer with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.

In Washington Wilson will report to Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles and other state department officials.

Just before sailing, Hull referred to the Lima conference as a "solid cause for hope in a world threatened by war."

The prime goal of the nations to be presented is, he said:

"To strengthen their traditional ties and endeavor to create new bonds of solidarity which would serve to eliminate the danger of war among themselves and to safeguard them from the propagation on their soil of extra-continental disputes."

Shopping For Christmas Fast Gaining Momentum!

Downtown New Castle is being set for the proper Christmas shopping emotional urge. Evergreens and colored electric lights turn the thoughts towards Christmas buying and the sight of greens and lights seems to unsnap the catch on the family purse, and shopping for Christmas is already gaining momentum rapidly.

Following the emotional build-up of the decorations, the merchants have dressed their windows in a way that almost pulls you inside much as a magnet pulls a piece of steel to it. Perhaps we're perennially Christmas conscious, but there does seem to be more color in the windows this year, more snap, more of that thing called "oomph." The big store windows have it and it's going to be tough to walk by.

WORST SNOWSTORM IN FORTY YEARS

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—More than seventy deaths were counted today from the snow-bearing wintry blasts throughout the east and middle-west, and the New York metropolitan area, in which sixteen fatalities occurred, was warned of a new onslaught.

Death toll for New York state, New Jersey and New England was more than 50. Pennsylvania reported 5 dead, Georgia 3, Maryland 1, Ohio 4, Michigan 2, Indiana 2, Nebraska 1 and Missouri 1.

Will Seek To Remove Politics From Relief

By ROBERT A. McGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Senate Republicans and a strong senate bloc of anti-administration Democrats today were agreed on a bill to drastically revise the administration's relief program at the next session of congress.

The coalition is so confident of success that the bill has already been written in full detail. Drawn up by Senator Bailey (D) of North Carolina, the measure will be introduced both in the senate and house when congress convenes in January.

Although details of the measure are being closely guarded, the general objectives of the program were outlined today by Senator Burke (D) of Nebraska.

Salient features of the bill, according to Burke, call for decentralization of federal relief, curtailment of relief expenditures, and removal of politics from relief.

Burke said the anti-administration Democrats are confident of enough strength to pass such a measure in the senate, but added that any support from the Republicans will be "welcome."

"This is to be a Democratic measure," he said, "but such a program as we intend to introduce is bound to transcend party lines because of its merit."

Daladier Pushes Military Moves To Crush Strikes

Serious Civil Strife Is Feared In France As Result Of Condition

PREMIER PRESSES HIS ARRANGEMENTS

General Federation Of Labor Calls For General Strike On Wednesday

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Both leftists and rightists publicly expressed fears of serious civil strife today as Premier Edouard Daladier forged rapidly ahead with arrangements to crush expanding strikes by military rule.

Some authorities even mention "civil war" as a possibility, since neither the general federation of labor, which plans a one-day strike of its 5,000,000 members Wednesday, nor Daladier, who is trying to enforce drastic economic changes, is showing any signs of backing down.

Only Alternatives

This alternative is plain to observers: France is about to see either the establishment of centralized authority resembling a dictatorship, or the downfall of Daladier and his center-right government.

There are now between 125,000 and 200,000 persons on strike. The labor federation insists they are battling the new decree laws of finance minister Paul Reynaud, which raise taxes and end the 40-hour work week maximum. But Daladier contends the strikes have no economic motive, being merely intended to bring about the overthrow of his cabinet, which has repudiated the leftist "popular front."

Battle Against California Fires Still In Progress

Weary Fire Fighters On Six Different Fronts On Coast Appear Winning

MANY COSTLY HOMES ARE PROBABLY SAVED

Damage Already Occasioned By Forest Fires Is Estimated At $2,000,000

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26—Weary fire fighters on six different fronts in Southern California mountains, after four days of man-killing work today appeared to be winning their battle against the destructive forest fires.

As the main wall of flames which have swept the Santa Monica mountains since Wednesday, doing more than $2,000,000 worth of damage, moved into Mandeville and Sullivan canyons, racing through brush made highly combustible by the long, dry summer, firemen were making a tremendous stand to stem the blaze.

Homes Of Celebrities Menaced

Homes of film celebrities, including those of Shirley Temple, Claudette Colbert, Joan Crawford, Gene Raymond, Pat O'Brien, Mary Astor, W. C. Fields, and many other wealthy Los Angeles residents were menaced but not considered in any extreme danger as yet.

The home of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, noted sportswoman, was saved early yesterday in Sullivan Canyon after she was forced to flee.

For a time last night the homes were seriously imperiled when a wind whipped suddenly up from the northwest, changing the course of the blaze in Sullivan and Mandeville canyons, but fears were allayed a short time later as the wind subsided.

"Mild Winter" Says Weather Forecaster

"Don't Let Thanksgiving Day Blizzard Fool You", Says W. H. Troxell

(International News Service)

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 26—Cautious citizens mincing gingerly along ice pavements and adjusting chains on their automobiles today will be glad to learn that it's going to be a mild winter.

"Don't let the Thanksgiving Day snowstorm fool you," advised Willoughby H. Troxelyl, of nearby Indian Springs Park, famous goosebone weather forecaster. "You can bet anything we'll have no blizzards this winter."

"December will be mild during the first two weeks, and there will be a little snow on Christmas," the seer continued. "But the ground hog will see his shadow on February 2 and go back for six more weeks of real winter weather."

Troxell, who annually makes a winter prediction, uses three special geese he raises himself in making his forecast. Dark and light shaded portions vary on the bones with the dark portions indicating ugly weather, he contends.

The goosebone prophet claims he missed in his forecast only once—in 1936 when someone allegedly stole his "predicting" goose and substituted an old goose.

Fair Association Names Directors

Five Are Re-Elected And Sixth Is Named To Fill Vacancy

LIVELY DISCUSSION FEATURES MEETING

Stockholders of the New Castle Agricultural association, which sponsors the annual New Castle fair, re-elected five present directors and named one new director at their annual meeting in a downtown office last night.

Re-elected to the board for three-year terms were two agriculturalists and three residents of New Castle. They were Thomas Cooper and S. Arthur McCreary, representing the rural section, and W. H. Atkinson, C. A. Brookover and Thomas A. Gilkey, New Castle men.

McGill Is Added

E. E. McGill, chairman of the board of the Lawrence Savings & Trust company, and a New Castle resident, was elected to serve out the unexpired term of the late W. J. Graham. His term will continue for two years.

Officers of the association for 1939 will be chosen by the new board within 10 days.

Ordinarily a routine and tranquil session, the annual stockholders' meeting of last night became for a time a lively debate on present fair policies. One or two stockholders took the floor to demand "a more up-and-going association," but Secretary A. Clyde Shoaf and several members of the board defended past policies.

Seek Cooperation

No Formal Alliance For Republican Senators

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—The Republican "side" of the Senate—mustering eight more members than the meager 15 it seated in the 75th congress—will enter no formal alliance with the anti-new deal Democrats in the forthcoming congress, Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, G. O. P. senate leader said today.

McNary, just returned to the capital, announced the Republican senate forces would be called into a strategy conference shortly before the first session of the 76th congress convenes the first week in January.

The Republicans will march side by side with Democrats when they are in agreement on specific issues McNary said in an interview.

"There will be no compact or wedding" he continued. "There will be no compact or wedding" he continued. "There will be a natural cohesion of forces in opposition to plans and policies of the new deal program.

"There will be common ground when there is a common purpose involved."

That the augmented Republican ranks, when joined by Anti-new deal Democrats, will be able to exercise some control over legislation, was McNary's view.

"The people in the November elections emphatically served notice they are against too many left turns" the Republican leader went on.

U. S. Ambassador Wilson To Stay In Washington

Assigned As Advisor On German Affairs In State Department

WELLES ANNOUNCES CHANGE IN STATUS

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—America's ambassador to Germany, Hugh R. Wilson, will be reassigned to the state department as an advisor for an indefinite time, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles announced today.

Welles' statement today was the first official admission that the peremptory summons which brought Wilson home from his Berlin post as an American protest to Nazi Germany's persecution of racial and religious minorities probably will keep him in Washington indefinitely.

To Report To President

Welles said Ambassador Wilson will go to Warm Springs, Ga., tonight to make a personal report on conditions in Germany to President Roosevelt. When Wilson returns to Washington, Welles said, he will be assigned to the department for duty as an advisor on German affairs.

Welles was careful to explain that Wilson will retain his capacity as ambassador to Germany, and that no change in that direction is being made at present.

Dr. Dafoe Denies Quintuplets Will Be Seen At Fair

Says Such A Plan Is Ridiculous In Denying Report From New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician to the Dionne quintuplets, today denied a published report that the five famous babies would go on exhibition at New York's 1939 World Fair.

In a telephone conversation with a New York Journal and American reporter from his home in Callander, Ontario, Dr. Dafoe declared he had never heard of such a plan and added:

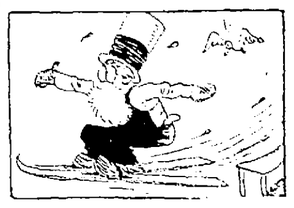

"If the Ontario government had given its consent to a proposition like that it certainly would have to consult with me first. And this is the first time I heard of it."

Dr. DaFoe is a member of a board of three guardians appointed by the provincial government to watch over the welfare of the quins.

"You can flatly deny such a report," Dr. Dafoe said, and he sounded a trifle snappish. "On the face of it I'd say that such a plan is ridiculous.

"Maybe we will be propositioned but I doubt very much whether we'd ever agree to put the quins before the public as no more than circus freaks."

House Graft Probers Delay Session

Lack Of Quorum Develops Friday

Meeting To Consider Report On Graft Hearings Now Set For Monday

GOVERNOR EARLE FINAL WITNESS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 26.—Lack of a quorum today had forced postponement of a scheduled executive meeting of the house graft charge investigating committee.

The session, scheduled for yesterday afternoon, was called off until Monday at 5 p. m. by Chairman Herbert B. Cohen, York Democrat, after Cohen and the two Republican members of the committee, Reps. Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware, and David R. Perry, Blair, became the only ones of the seven-man committee to appear.

Hearings Closed

Hearings on charges of graft and corruption in the Earle administration came to a close Thanksgiving Eve with Gov. George H. Earle himself emphatically denying all the charges. The governor was the last of a string of state officials and cabinet members who paraded to the stand and vigorously denied all of the accusations made by former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti in the heat of the primary campaign.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Guy K. Bard, from his home in Denver, Lancaster county, declared he would not decide before Monday whether to appeal a ruling of Judge Paul N. Schaeffer allowing Dauphin county District Attorney Carl B. Shelley to conduct a grand jury investigation of the same charges the committee has been probing.

An appeal from Bard would again uphold inauguration of grand jury proceedings pending supreme court action.

To protect these from any raids by Indians, who were assisting the English in the war at that time, a block house was erected near the Junction of Washington street and North Mercer street. A librarian who has been looking up many current "wisecracks" and which some people regard as slang, has found that they are not peculiar to this age but really belong to a bewhiskered past. For instance, the expression, "I'll tell the world" was used by William Shakespeare 315 years ago in Measure for Measure." "The game is up" Shakespeare wrote in Cymbeline "Not So Hot" in Winter's Tale. The Little French Lawyer, by Beaumont and Fletcher, had "one foot in the grave" 291 years ago. Some 352 years ago a wife was first called, "my better half" by Sir Philip Sidney in Arcadia, and "I'm no angel" wrote William Thackery in Vanitary Fair, about 1848. So don't imagine you're pulling something fresh when you use these expressions.

The word "and" occurs 35,543 times. The word "eternity" is found only once in the entire Bible, Isiah 57:15. In the New Testament there are 27 books, 260 chapters, 7,959 verses, 181,253 words and 383,380 letters. The word "Reverend" appears only once in the entire bible Psalms 111:9. To chain or not to chain is a rather perplexing question with motorists these days. If one puts his chains on and then takes a trip out onto the main traveled highways, he finds the snow swept off most of the roadway in a few hours, and he is driving on the bare concrete. If he gets off the main road he finds the snow well packed down and slippery. On some city streets the same condition exists. It is hard on the chains, but for purposes of safety every motorist should use them under present conditions.

the assignment of a visiting ambassador to duty in the state department as an advisor is "unusual."

Silent On Discussion

Welles conferred briefly with Wilson this morning, but said he was unable to discuss the nature of their talk. Nor was he able to say just how long Wilson will remain with the president at Warm Springs. But it was indicated that Wilson's visit will be of sufficient length to give the president a complete fill-in on the entire trend of events in Germany during the eleven months in which Wilson has been in the Nazi capital as this country's ambassador.

Wilson also conferred with other officials at the state department following his talk with Welles. These included James C. Dunn, the department's political advisor on European affairs and Pierrepont Moffat, chief of the European division.

He was reticent concerning his "report and consultation" with the president, clearly indicating that nothing concrete could be said pending his personal report to the chief executive.

Ambassador Wilson returned to this country on the Liner Manhattan yesterday. He had time for a brief conference with Secretary of State Cordell Hull who sailed a short time later as chief U. S. delegate to the inter-American conference at Lima, Peru.

orders from "strong man" Daladier, prepared individual convocation cards for military mobilization of public service workers on Wednesday.

By conscripting railroad and other service workers into the army, they are, theoretically at least, subject to court martial if they refuse to work.

Workers On Trial

Several hundred workers arrested during factory disorders of the last few days went on trial this morning on varying charges.

Four hundred and fifty persons who participated in a short-lived sit-down strike at the Renault Automobile works outside Paris were on trial here. Ten-day jail sentences were given to most, but eight others were held while authorities investigated possible charges of attempted murder.

The rightist newspaper Action Francaise charged that 22 arrested in the Renault raid were not members of the factory staff. They crept into the factory Thursday afternoon and organized occupation of the plant, which employs a total of 30,000.

Of the 450 arrested, more than 100 were members of the International Brigade, which recently returned after fighting for the government side in Spain, said Action Francaise, warning that revolutionary tactics would be employed.

Other sources confirmed that at least a handful of International Brigade soldiers, not Renault employees, were arrested in the plant.

A warning of the possibly grave consequences of Daladier's stand appeared in Le Populaire, the newspaper of Leon Blum, Socialist leader and expremier today. Yesterday Blum, after Daladier was reported planning to dissolve the Communist and Socialist parties, demanded that the premier resign.

"Don't be obstinate, Daladier," Le Populaire said in big type. The premier, Blum asserted, cannot advance or retreat "without launching the country on a most dangerous adventure."

As the girl collapsed, dead, McNeal stared at her for a moment, then lifted the pistol to his temple and fired one shot. Frightened office workers found both bodies in the corridor.

POPE PIUS SHOWS IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITION TODAY

we have already hinted happily continues—so much so that His Holiness has returned to a mode of life more or less normal."

The pontiff's personal physician, Dr. Aminta Milani, however, counselled some days of complete rest for Pius before he resumes his habitual tasks.

Dictates Message

In addition, it was learned that the pope himself virtually dictated the medical bullet to Cardinal Pacelli, who communicated it to the papal secretariat.

Such was the manner in which the stout-hearted pontiff sought to thrust aside his illness and continue his fight for life with the same tenacity and grit that enabled him to conquer the frowning matterhorn in his alpining days.

Before the medical bulletin was issued in words of the pope's own careful choosing, Vatican officials described his condition in cold clinical language. They declared:

"The Holy Father is relatively comfortable."

As though believing his death at a critical time in the Roman Catholic church's history might leave millionss of Jews, Catholics and others in Europe almost without a defender, the aged pontiff rallied every atom of energy in his frail body to recover from his heart affliction.

Throughout the night until 5 a. m. his pulse fluctuated, but with the aid of his oxygen tent his breathing became regular and he slept for two hours.

At 7:30 a. m. he awakened and shortly thereafter Dr. Milani decided he had recovered sufficiently to dispense with the tent.

After nurses made him comfortable, the pope heard mass celebrated in a private chapel adjoining his bedchamber while Dr. Milani and other attendants knelt in prayer at his bedside.

SHOPPING FOR XMAS GAINING MOMENTUM!

tered around, all of them showing the things that the kids will like. And a gander into the jewelry store windows turns a young man's fancy long before the spring.

There are several food stores about which something should be done. Steps should be taken or a law should be passed. It seems almost sinful to display all that tempting food that seems to shriek its ability to expand and waistline over night. Nuts and candies and citrous peels, candied in hard cakes known as "Ambeshaw" to you, cherries and other fruits, and a yard and a half of fancy cakes.

All designed to blow your pocketbook wide open and probably will. In a few days the Christmas Savings Funds will start to roll, the Christmas spirit will begin stirring like the swell of a heavy sea, and you'll be downtown looking over the windows. And when you do, you're bound to fall.

Christmas shopping is like no other shopping of the year. There's the urge to give back of it and after all, most of us are suckers for the old giving idea.

TIME TO BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

ONE of our important public enemies, notwithstanding notable progress along the lines of control, is tuberculosis. The fight against this disease, once the scourge of the nation, is progressing in a heartening manner but it has not been won. Many more years of effort may be required before tuberculosis has been eliminated as a source of peril. Meanwhile, funds must be made available to carry on the fight.

For more than 30 years, ever since the idea was first conceived in the mind of a Danish postmaster, Christmas seals have been used as a means of obtaining funds for the struggle against tuberculosis. Today in 40 countries of the world including our own, this seal is both the harbinger of the Christmas season and the herald of health.

This is a worthy cause. The seals, small and inexpensive, are none the less significant of thoughtfulness and sympathy and serve as an effective weapon against a deadly enemy of the human race.

CHRISTMAS AND TRAFFIC

Traffic quickened as the industrial recovery began; it has quickened and thickened still more, now that Christmas is coming. The brightest and happiest Christmas in a long time is assured. How many accidents will spoil it both for those who cause them and the victims, during these preparatory weeks?

Thought of the season given over to love of our fellow men and good will on earth requires thought of the hazards on the streets. How many among the happy children will be dead or maimed when Christmas comes? All who drive, ride or walk in the many congestions due to Christmas preparations can do much by their active co-operation to keep the traffic toll down.

Shop early, mail early; make it the best Christmas ever. Apply all the goods rules and this one besides, "Drive carefully." Nobody wants his or her own or any other person's Christmas tragically ruined. Keep the thought associating traffic and Christmas, taking no chances!

AND MOST BOYS ARE JIMMYS

This seems to the season for colossal cruxes and crises, and ten-year-old Jimmy Varner out in Gifford, Illinois, knows how governments feel when they come face to face with tremendous dilemmas. When fire broke out in his home, it was up to him to save his choicest treasure. Should it be his brand new bicycle, or his pet dog, Towser?

Being a ten-year-old named Jimmy, he hesitated only an instant before grabbing Towser and scurrying to safety before the house collapsed. If he had chosen otherwise, what fun would a bike be henceforth with no dog romping happily alongside? Fathers can usually be persuaded to buy new bikes for the world's Jimmys, but Towsers simply can't be replaced. Thus whether the lad used lightning logic, or was moved by childhood's pure emotions, he can still look other lads and all dogs in the face unashamed.

Adults hear of this, remember their childhood, and sigh that their own problems are not so translucent, so happily solvable.

All his life Jimmy will face a succession of decisions, trying situations, road forks to select, choices between objects and courses of varying appeal. But he is starting out right; nobody need worry about his heart or his judgment

ANOTHER SOVIET SUPPORT BUCKLES

If any further evidence were needed to convince outsiders that there are things fundamentally wrong with the whole Soviet regime, and that it is doomed to remain a government of fruitless turmoil instead of constructive cohesion, the continuing purges of leaders and groups who have been considered the life blood of the Communist set-up should be conclusive.

The Kremlin all along has been keeping the army, its major standby, in a state of hysteria by demotions and executions. Now it is the youth element under the axe.

As in the case of the army liquidations, Moscow concedes in revealing the removal of the chief executives of the Young Communist League that it is shot through with disloyalty, counter-revolution, hostility to the Stalinist credos.

Yet all this mess of intrigue and rancor is still held up in some quarters as a model for the United States and other countries. If Russia through hypnosis and coercion cannot hold the fealty of her own impressionable young people, any sector of American youth giving lip service to Moscow might well take heed of this disruption on the home grounds and decide that distance is simply lending false enchantment to a Bolshevik system that is morally and spiritually bankrupt.

FIRE HAS TWO GREAT ALLIES

Fire has two great allies. One is ignorance. The other is carelessness.

With the help of these allies, fire consumes about $300,000,000 worth of property each year—and, of infinitely greater importance, destroys some 10,000 human lives.

Ignorance leads us to improperly repair electric cords, or put pennies behind burned out fuses. Ignorance causes hazardous building construction, with inadequately protected heating pipes, flues and fireplaces. Ignorance causes us to hang wet clothes on electric wires, to use wooden barrels for hot ashes, and to search for gas leaks with matches.

Carelessness is an equally potent friend of fire. It causes us to postpone needed repairs to heating plants, electric wiring, etc., on the grounds that "we'll get around to it tomorrow or the next day." It causes us to store junk in attics, and to leave inflammable liquids near stoves and heaters. It causes us to leave matches where they may be easily reached by the ignorant hands of children.

The old saw to the effect that "tomorrow may be too late" is especially applicable to the hazards that breed fire. Alertness on the part of everyone would prevent the majority of America's fires. The unpreventable fire is extremely rare. Ignorance can be easily conquered if the individual wills—any fire insurance company or fire marshal can provide you with the simple instructions that will serve to eliminate most common hazards. And knowledge of fire's ghastly, unnecessary toll is all that any man should need to conquer the vice of carelessness.

Republics really are ungrateful. The taxpayer who does most for his country doesn't even get a citation.

Maturity isn't a matter of years. It is the realization that nothing is worth the price of being elbowed by a sweaty crowd.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PLAY SPOTS ARE NEEDED

YOU AND I have often said that children are more to be desired than grass. We want more places where children may play. We need more playgrounds for children at school and for children at home.

We also need to train our children to use the playground they have. And we need some grass.

Beautiful plots of grass and shrubs in front of school buildings and homes are very desirable, and children who learn to keep off these plots at play are learning good character and citizenship. It's too bad college students have so little regard for campus greens.

Choose Playground

If, however, it is a choice, as it must be in some instances, between a school playground and a beautiful plot of green, have the playground by all means. But if, as usually is possible, there can be both grass and adequate playground, children who don't learn to be very careful of the grass are learning bad citizenship.

A few homes should have play places in the front rather than grass. Most, however, can have the play space back of the house. Anyway, there are very few town and city homes with ground plots large enough for children to play running games and ball games freely without trespassing on a neighbor. And when your child and mine trespass on our neighbor, these children are losing in character far more than they gain.

When we are wiser and care more about the welfare of our children, we will see that there are one or several large community play places in every block, and that our children play there.

Train Children

I wish school authorities who have provided ample playground would train children at school in being careful of the grass and shrubs about the school building. I wish parents would do so in respect to their own lawns and the lawns of their neighbors.

One morning recently I was on my way to speak before a state teachers' convention. My host was a school principal. He took me to see his building. As we entered I admired the landscaping. Then he said that children skating on the front sidewalk had destroyed some of it and (apologetically) that they are now forbidden to do so until they can learn to be careful. Then he showed me a skating place in the rear of the building and a spacious playground. "You are right," was my remark.

And I saw some conduct slogans and proverbs on the walls of one classroom. They are coming back. They should. Not all the old is bad nor all the new the best.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOME BULL

An ancient California legend of Death Valley California, was recalled one day in November. A bull was found bogged down in the salt sink at Bad Water, apparently gasping its last. Rescuers fetched water from Furnace Creek Ranch twenty miles away.

Then the rescuers had time to wonder. The only bull of which any Death Valley residents had knowledge had been seen last at Ash Meadows more than twenty miles away. The poor brute finally was saved.

Arriving at the Amargosa hotel, Carl Glasscock, one of the rescue party told about the bull to Mr. McFee, chief dispatcher of the Tonopah & Tidewater Railroad and Mr. McFee tried to explain how it might have happened.

There is a volcanic blowout or hole near the edge of Ash Meadows. Indians tell that a squaw once fell into that hole and reappeared in Death Valley, on Furnace Creek. Ever since the Indians learned of the white man's devil that hole has been known as Devil's Hole, and anyone entering it, the Indian legend declared, would reappear willy-nilly, in the region of Furnace Creek.

But so far as records go, this bull is the first creature which by any stretch of the imagination might have made such a trip.

The bull, be it known, was the Ash Meadow bull—believe it or not.

OLD THINGS AND NEW

New things are selfish! They demand
Man's constant care.
One must alert and watchful stand
New things to wear.

New things are sensitive! They take
Offense at slight.
The trivial blunders man may make
Are kept in sight.

New things are prey to discontent
And hard to please!
Sometimes they openly resent
The ways of ease.

But old things have an easy way
'Gainst dust and dirt.
Such, the grim service of the day
No more can hurt.

Like good old friends the good old things
Share hurt and strife
And the rough wear long usage brings
As part of life.

HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:37; sun rises tomorrow 6:58.

It looks now that as if the World War was ended too soon. It should have been extended into the Hitler territory a little more.

While it is true that a great majority of those who are paroled from prison go straight after they get out, at the same time the few who keep on being criminals make it bad for the parole business. A few bad eggs make it bad for the good ones.

Now comes some expert or other to say the fox really isn't a smart animal. He's certain to be smart—or he couldn't give such an excellent imitation of smartness.

HOW HE FELT

Excerpt from testimony given recently before Judge Thomas P. White, Los Angeles:

Question: Now, doctor, in language as nearly popular as the subject will permit, will you please tell the jury just what was the cause of this man's death?

Answer: Do you mean the proxima causa mortima?

Q: I can't say, doctor. I'll leave that to you.

A: Well, in plain everyday language, he died of an edema of the brain, that followed a ceberal thrombosis, or possibly an embolism that, in turn, followed an arteriorsclerosis combined with the effect of gangrenous schorecystitis.

A Juror: Well, I'll be triple damned!

The Court: Ordinarily I would fine a juror for saying anything like that in court but I cannot, in this instance, justly impose a penalty upon you, sir, because the court was thinking exactly the same thing.

A Texas boy has had 19 operations on his throat and is going to undergo another one so he can call the cows. Moo-moo!

LACONIC

There are lots of people of few words in this world.

One of them had just hired a new maid.

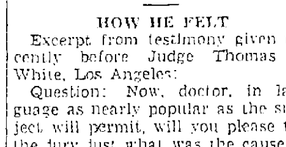

"I don't say much," said the mistress, "but when I beckon you with my hand, that means come here."

"A fine sentiment," said the maid. "I, too, am a woman of few words. If I shake my head that means I'll be too busy to come."

If we get licked, the fault will be our own. The nation, party, group or individual that wins is never the one that doesn't know what it wants.

Unemployment Census Taker—Really, Miss, it's essential that your correct age be entered on the card.

Spinster Duff—Well—er—43, but please write it as illegibly as possible.

There's always something. In summer you scratch bites. Then you put on a homespun suit over shorts.

Three vigilantes spying in a churchyard at Blackrock, Irish Free State, saw Julia Clark from Glasgow, Scotland, kiss a local boy. They reported her to the police. Under a new law which forbids "any act offending modesly or causing scandal or injuring the morals of the community," she was sentenced to a month in jail and life exile from the Free State. The boy she kissed was fined $10.

Now we are told the gals are going to wear hats made of wood. Lots of birds have enough wood in their heads without wearing wooden lids.

Radio humor has now reached a stage wher the comedians joking about their jokes don't get laughs any more.

The liquor stock in this country is higher now than in all history. There is even nearly two hundred thousand gallons of pre-war stuff. No doubt it will be crimped some during the coming holidays. Remember how that pre-war stuff was licked up?

Hotel Clerk—I beg your pardon, sir, but what is your name?

Bunchuck (indignantly)—Name? Don't you see my signature I just placed on your register?

Clerk—Of course, sir, I do; but that's what aroused my curiosity.

France now has a Klu-Klux clan organization. Imagine, on a dark night, meeting a traveling bed-sheet—with a French accent!

ABOUT TIME

The big limousine drove into the service station.

"A gallon of gas, please," said the driver.

The attendant looked over the car and then nodded.

"I really don't blame you, he said. "This car certainly is big enough to be weaned."

Sally Rand says she does not dance in the nude, when she is in court. She tries to create that impression while on the stage anyhow. Once she told us she did not think we would know her when she had her clothes on.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Francine Markel

The wise wife will not annoy her husband during his business hours. Telephone calls while he is engaged in a busy conference will not put him in the best of humors. Nor will he appreciate his wife's making an errand girl of his secretary. People in business have their noses to the grindstone all day long with the exception of a brief luncheon period. This recess they wish to devote to their own personal affairs and not to those of a woman who has many hours of leisure.

Reader's Question Answered

Dear Miss Markel—Recently I was a guest at a formal dinner. The hostess introduced me to two or three guests who were standing nearby and presented to me the man who took me in. The majority of the guests I did not meet. Wasn't this unusual?—L. L. B.

Answer—General introductions at a formal dinner are not customary. The arriving guest is presented to the guest-of-honor and to any one else standing near the receiving line. The hostess sees to it that each man is presented to the woman he is to take in to dinner. Introductions are never made at the table. Even though guests have not been introduced they should talk to those seated nearby both at the table and after dinner in the drawing room.

In spite of all the money spending in this country the poor houses have more inmates, the jails and pens too small and the panhandlers more plentiful than ever before. There seems to be a wrong way to spend billions. The money has not been going to the right places it seems.

PLEA FOR PEACE

Oh, Dove of Peace, grow large and strong;
Let not the unclean hands of man do you wrong.
Keep fearful thoughts of war away from them.
Fill all their souls with peace so pure.
And those whose thoughts are dark do try to cure.
Let men not win the battles so unfair;
Let not the world go through the toil and care.
Oh, Gentle Dove of Peace, hear this my prayer!

For an entire day, Policeman Harry Jones, of Morris, Ill., trudged through the hills on a rabbit hunt. But neither he nor his companion could fine one. Discouraged, Jones sighted a rusty gallon can and said, "well, I have to shoot at something." He pulled the trigger. Inside the can was a rabbit, killed with the one shot.

Barber—Wet or dry, Sir.

Chubbwit—Finish cutting my hair, please, and never mind my personal habits.

Boogy—What are you taking for that cold of your, old man?

Woogy—Only advice.

Wife—Every time I get ready to go shopping you say you haven't any money. Why don't you see Broker Skjold and get him to give you some tips on the stock market?

Hubby—My dear, speculation on the stock market is always a big gamble. One gains one day and loses the other.

Wife—Then, it should be easy. Only speculate every other day.

Installment Collector—Hello, there young man. Is your mother or father at home?

Little Jackie—They are both out and said for you to call again Friday.

Collector—H'm! And why on Friday, my little man?

Little Jackie—That's what I don't know, sir. We're moving Thursday.

Even nature this year is helping the children to believe there is a Santa Claus. A comet is due at Christmas time and the moppets are certain to think it sparks from the shoes of Saint Nick's speeding reindeers.

Goebbels Is Held Next To Hitler Rated No. 2 Nazi Despite Goering Would Exceed Hitler In Terrorism

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—When Hugh R. Wilson, just returning from Germany to make his ambassadorial report to President Roosevelt, gets on into his story, it is a safe bet that our chief executive will be told the Fatherland could do worse than with Herr Hitler, bad as the latter is. Shortly before the pogrom broke out I had a chat with an old friend, long a resident of Leipzig but on a visit in this, his native country. I refrain from naming him or he couldn't go back to his business in Europe. Anyway, I expressed surprise that someone doesn't take a pot-shot at the feuhrer. He immediately would be killed, of course, but there are folk willing to make that sacrifice in such situations as the Germans' present one. I don't contend that assassination is justifiable in any circumstances, but it's committed occasionally in emergencies.

"It would be most deplorable," said my friend. And he proceeded to outline the horrors that would be sure to follow an unceremonious "bumping off" of Herr Hitler.

Calls Hitler Mild

I'm prepared now to believe him, considering the conditions which have prevailed since the shooting, by a crack-brained Jewish boy, of a German minor diplomatic official in Paris. If Hitler had been the shootee, what mightn't have happened!

"But aside from that," continued my friend, "in the event of Hitler's elimination, Propaganda Minister Goebbels would be certain to succeed him. Now, the democratic world thinks of Hitler as the limit because he's been more advertised, but he's mild in comparison with Goebbels."

Marshal Goering, the Nazi military promoter, is spoken of as one of the Reich's toughest characters.

He's hard-boiled all right, according to reliable information. Yet Goering, it appears, is human—sane, companionable, a jolly German. He doesn't have crazy tantrums, like Hitler. He isn't a dottily sour introvert, like Goebbels. He more resembles the late President von Hindenburg, who was quite civilized until Hitler supplanted him.

However, Goering doesn't signify; Hitler ranks him, and, Hitler being blotted out, no would be of less consequence than ever under Goebbels.

This is what the president is likely to hear from Ambassador Wilson.

Wilson probably will not prove so be as vehemently anti-Hitleristic as his predecessor, William E. Dodd, who quit as U. S. ambassador to Berlin and came home because Adolf so disgusted him, and has been anti-Hitleristically campaigning ever since then. Wilson's language is more diplomatically restrained than Dodd's.

Roosevelt Emphatic

Nevertheless, President Roosevelt's recent utterances have been about as emphatic as Dodd's have been.

They don't imply that Uncle Sam sees it as his mission to go overseas to correct Hitleristic inhumanities but they do hint that Uncle Samuel doesn't care to associate with that kind of a government.

My guess is that relations definitely have been broken.

My impression also is that F. D. R. materially has popularized himself at home by his attitude.

Latin America instantly reacts in general, favorably to President Roosevelt's expressions.

Brazil traditionally is pro-Yankee. Next to the U. S., it's the strongest of New World republics. It also is afraid of German influence having been considerably bothered by it. Argentina, where Germans are numerous, is slightly balky. Ditto Uruguay—but Uruguay's a mere dot on the map. Mainly this hemisphere is solid. Argentina and Uruguay, too, will have to get in line shortly. Even now they're recalcitrant very qualifiedly.

Canada, it goes almost without saying, is 100 per cent Pan-American.

The Pan-American Union ought, all along, to have included Canada.

Now it's doing it. It needn't worry about Argentina and Uruguay; it'll get 'em easily, by force of gravitation.

Let the Old World go beserk. We've got this half of the globe.

Bible Thought For Today

All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore and teach all nations . . . and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.—Matt. 28:18-20.

Hints On Etiquette

Whatever your position in life do not take a superior or patronizing attitude to anyone. In the first place it is discourteous, and in the second it shows decidedly that you are not a superior person.

Words of Wisdom

Nothing is so hard for those who abound in riches as to conceive how others can be in want.—Swift.

Note on management: For this year's crop, plus all government benefits, the cotton farmer will get 700 million dollars; the five-year average before the government saved him was 1400 million.

The Risks Of Prophecy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

AMONG the memories of our President's White House moods are those in which he can laugh at the press. He dearly loves a joke on the newspaper men who attend his press conferences and he is at his happiest when in his lively way he has put one over on them.

FOR example, many will recall his undisguised glee early in 1937 when his supreme court-packing plan was sprung that not a single newspaper man in Washington had so much as suspected that any such scheme existed until it was formally announced. Perhaps it would have been better for the President had something of his purpose leaked out before he became too deeply committed, because it is quite certain after it was made public that he got no enjoyment out of the proposal at all, owever, he has not changed. His pleasure in surprising the newspaper men with announcements of things he intends to do which they failed to anticipate is only equaled by his delight for having the newspapers anticipate the things he intends to do. When they do that, the Presidential inclination always is to prove them wrong.

IF IT were not for the not-altogether-endearing trait, it would be easy to assert with complete confidence that soon after Congress meets—or possibly even before—he will announce two major appointments:

For Justice of the Supreme Court—Dr. Felix Frankfurter.

For Attorney General—Mr. Robert H. Jackson.

The chief reason for uncertainty about these Presidential selections is that they have been so widely forecast by the newspapers. Those who know the President best agree that one way of preventing him from doing a thing is to publicly prophesy that that is what he is going to do.

IN THESE two cases, however, the reasons seem weighty enough to overcome the distaste of Mr. Roosevelt for having his actions accurately predicted in the press. So far as Dr. Frankfurter is concerned, not one excuse for not appointing him has been suggested—the way that he is a Jew. Some of his confidentials, it is said, have urged upon Mr. Roosevelt that to name him might increase anti-Semitic feeling in the country. This is so unsound as well as so unworthy an idea that no one believes Mr. Roosevelt will let it influence him for a minute. The fact is Dr. Frankfurter's qualifications as a lawyer and a man are generally recognized and his being a Jew would no more add to anti-Semitism in this country than does the fact that Justice Brandeis is a Jew or Governor Lehman of New York or Governor Horner of Illinois.

AS for Mr. Jackson, to name him Attorney General is so logical as to be almost inescapable. He is at present Solicitor General. Before that he was Assistant Attorney General and he is close to the President personally. It would be a natural promotion. Of course, outside the more partisan New Deal circles Mr. Jackson is not popular. His somewhat rabelaisian and very brief campaign for the New York Gubernatorial nomination ended to make him rather a joke in that State, and the bellicose dona nobis of his speeches have made a generally unfavorable impression. They are applauded by the extremists but not

Cardinal Mundelein Boards Liner Today For United States

(International News Service)

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 26.—George Cardinal Mundelein, arch-bishop of Chicago, boarded the liner Conti Di Savoia today, en route to the United States following his trip to Rome.

The American cardinal obviously was concerned over the condition of Pope Pius. He went aboard the vessel at 1 p. m., an hour before sailing time.

His luggage had been placed aboard the ship at noon, however, but then was removed and reloaded only at the last minute, indicating the cardinal at first had decided not to sail, and then changed his mind.

The Conte Di Savoia usually sails from Naples at noon. Apparently the departure of the ship was delayed for two hours today to await news from the Vatican on the condition of the Pope.

Caliphs Readying For Ladies' Night

Plenty Of Action Promised For Tuesday Night In The Cathedral Ballroom

These ice highways will be clear before Tuesday. There's bound to be. Tuesday night is the night of the ladies' night party of the Caliphs of Bagdad, and any shenanigan by the weather man is going to result in repercussions, reverberations and recriminations.

From the chairman of the board, Louis B. Rowe, down to the Forty Thieves, and on out through the rank and file of the Caliphs, there is a growing sentiment that unless the weather man does clear the roads he'll have to take the consequences.

The wives of the Caliphs are preparing for the party. A permanent wave here, a manicure there, a pair of new shoes or a dress, "little bit of business here, little bit of business there", and the gals will be ready to shine.

The ladies' night party is going to be surprising, it appears after a peek at the arrangements. A troupe of professional entertainers from Pittsburgh for the show, a little bit of decree work, not too much, just enough to let the ladies in on a bit of the secrets; a dance and a lunch that will not include lady fingers or one-bite sandwiches but real, honest-to-goodness meats and cheese, olives and pickles —what the boys at the club like to refer to as a Dutch lunch. All the program will be downstairs in the Cathedral.

The evening starts at eight o'clock with every minute from there to midnight packed to the gunwales with fun and hilarity. With, of course, the Caliphs on their very best behavior. Not that they aren't always, but then, you never can tell.

Under the terms of an agreement reached between Poland and Czechoslovakia following the Munich accord, the territory was to be given up on December 1. Faced with the threat of warfare, however, the Slovaks decided on evacuation of the region within two days. Prague consented to the new plan.

The Great Game Of Politics

highly regarded by discerning people. His disposition is to consider himself much more heavily endowed with wisdom and virtue than he really is, but then, that is typical of the group to which he belongs.

OFFICIALLY, as well as personally, his White House relations are such that if Mr. Jackson should be passed over and some one else made Attorney General, it would seem a deliberate slap by the President at one of his brightest young men. The fact that he has gone perhaps higher and faster than his mental equipment seems to warrant would make no difference. For one thing, that can be said about so many others here. A very convincing reason for believing the Frankfurter and Jackson appointments are sure is that they have been ardently urged by the Corcoran-Cohen "inner-circle" combination. So far as Dr. Frankfurter is concerned, these palace politicians have set their pure young hearts on his selection. And Mr. Jackson is actually one of them. If both are named there will be great joy in Georgetown. Triumphant tunes will be played on the accordion and from all the "intellectual liberals" prayers of thanks will go up. The one danger seems to be this intense Presidential dislike for having not especially inspired newspaper writers take the news out of his announcements. That may seem a fantastic apprehension, but those who know Mr. Roosevelt best know it to be a real one.

Mayor Wilson Is Aroused By 'Loan' Charges

Denounces Special Grand Jury For Action Taken By Character Assassins

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—Mayor S. Davis Wilson today denounced as a "cowardly" and "vicious distortion" charges by a special grand jury that he obtained $53,550 between 1935 and 1937 from "those who might be interested in having him pull his punches."

"These character assassins, after having failed in 14 months to find a single act of wrongdoing on my part, know I have no legal redress against them," the mayor asserted in answer to a jury presentment charging he obtained questionable "advances" from utilities, industrial enterprises and individuals.

The jury asserted the loans, some of which have never been repaid, were obtained by Wilson while a candidate for mayor in 1935 and following his election and pointed out the mayor has been "extremely active" in utility and labor circles affecting the lenders.

Forced To Borrow

Wilson declared that long before the grand jury sessions began he had announced publicly that he had been forced to borrow $30,000 "to pay my obligations growing out of my struggle for many years for the people of Philadelphia."

"This presentment," he said, "is made in an attempt to make it appear that I have been swerved from my duty as mayor in spite of the sworn statements of the gentlemen referred to that these loans were made to me to relieve me temporarily of the indebtedness."

John P. Connelly, former counsel for the United Gas Improvement and Philadelphia electric companies denied a $12,750 loan to the mayor credited to him was connected with either of the utilities. He insisted it was a personal transaction and had been repaid by the mayor.

Condemning both the mayor and those listed as his creditors, the jury said the mayor's actions "were incompatible with the integrity and morality of the office of mayor and contrary to sound public policy."

Committee Legal, But Must Cease Work Next Week

Committee Probing Race Track Information In State Must Quit Wednesday

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—The Thompson legislative commission investigating dissemination of race track information in Pennsylvania is legal but must end its work by next Wednesday, the state supreme court had ruled today.

At the same time the high tribunal forbade the commission to call M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, and his son, Walter, to appear before it with certain records. The court thereby reversed a Dauphin county court decision refusing the Annenberg petition for an injunction against the commission on grounds the body was illegally appointed and the subpoenas issued against them violated their constitutional rights.

In a per curiam ruling, the higher court overruled the publisher's contention the commission was illegal because it was not included in the special session call. Since the primary purpose of the call was legislation on gambling, however, the commission's power must expire at the same time the legislature's power to make law expires—Dec. 1, the supreme court decided.

Recounts Assured In Two Election Contests, Report

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—Recounts were assured today in at least two more election contests because two Republican candidates in the November election raced over icy streets to the home of Judge Ralph H. Smith to present their petitions before midnight when the deadline expired.

The candidates were State Senator-elect John M. Walker, of Oakmont, and Robert McKinley, of Thornburg. Noting that the date was still November 25, the last day on which to file such petitions, Judge Smith accepted them in the study of his home and affixed his signature. Alker, on the face of official returns, won a close from Rep. Samuel B. Weiss which the Democrats are trying to upset and McKinley trailed by more than 500 votes behind Congressman Matthew A. Dunn, a result the Republicans are trying to reverse.

Another recount will be made in the race between Congressman-elect John McDowell, Republican, who had a lead of about 2,000 over Congressman James Quinn, Democrat. Quinn is contesting the count in several districts.

Beware of sin. A thing must be pretty awful when fakers and chiselers don't imitate it.

Communism Probe In Ohio Resumed By Representative

Continues Probe Into Communism In Ohio Schools, Wants To Interview Strip Teaser

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 26.—Rep. Harold G. Mosier, (D) Ohio., continued his investigation of Communism in Ohio schools today and indicated it may spread to cover activities of the American student union on behalf of Loyalist Spain and China.

Mosier, chairman of a sub-committee of the Dies un-American activities investigating committee, and Rep. Noah M. Mason, (R) Illinois, questioned a student at Western Reserve university and two professors, but refused to divulge their names. He said the student may be called to Washington to testify before the whole committee.

Time out from the school investigation was taken while Mosier called Gypsy Rose Lee (Louise Hovick) and asked that she fly to Cleveland to tell what she knows about activities in the Hollywood film colony on behalf of Loyalist Spain and China.

The strip tease dancer, appearing at a Columbus theatre, told newsmen she is willing 'to bare all," but declared she is too busy to come here. She suggested that the committee "hold its investigation in my dressing room".

Charge Violation Of Securities Act

Hearing Is Set For January 16 For Transamerica Corporation

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The Transamerica Corporation, one of the nation's larest banking and financial organizations, was accused by the federal government today of violating the securities act.

In a 21-page bill of particulars, the securities and exchange commission announced it had "reasonable grounds" to believe that the well-known West Coast banking firm, which is headed by A. P. Giannini, had filed a registration statement containing "false and misleading information," and which failed to show its true financial condition.

The company will be given an opportunity to refute the commission's allegations at a formal hearing in Washington January 16. The treasury, which has supervision over national banks through the comptroller of the currency, will be an interested observer, it was learned.

Should the allegations be upheld after hearing, 11,590,000 shares of Transamercia stock would be subject to possible suspension or withdrawal from the New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles stock exchanges.

The S. E. C. questioned numerous items contained on Transamerica's registration statement which became effective last year. These items involved a number of financial organizations that are associated with the company.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—A. P. Giannini, chairman, and John M. Grant, president of Transamercia Corporation lashed back today at the complaint by the securities exchange commission calling for a hearing into the registration by the Transamerica Corporation of 11,590,784 shares of stock now listed on three stock exchanges.

"The motive behind this complaint is one calculated definitely to prejudice Transamercia Corporation in the eyes of the public," the two officers of the corporation declared.

They asked the public to withhold judgment until all the facts are brought out. They asserted that all the accounts have been audited by a nationally known firm of accountants and declared the complaint was made public suddenly and without written notice to them.

To Sift Charges On T. V. A. Audit

Charge T. V. A. Officials Interferred With Audits Of Government Men

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Charges—heard in congress again and again during the 75th congress—that T. V. A. officials interferred with government audits of the power authority's books and obstructed presentation of T. V. A. audits to congress finally are to be sifted.

When the joint congressional committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority resumes its hearings Monday, dealings between T. V. A. and the general accounting office will be looked into, Francis Biddle, committee counsel, announced today.

After Acting Comptroller General Richard N. Elliott testifies, the committee will hear engineers of T. V. A. describe their duties and give figures on allocations of appropriations for power, navigation and flood control.

Slated to testify were T. D. Parker, chief engineer of T. V. A.; Sherman Woodward, chief hydraulic engineer of T. V. A., and J. H. Aldredge, navigation engineer of the half-billion dollar government enterprise in Dixie.

As the committee turned to a new phase of its investigation, Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, left a stinging attack upon "subsidized government competition."

As he left the witness stand late yesterday he told newspaper reporters that "if subsidized government competition with utilities is not stopped, the utilities soon will be in the same financial shape as the railroads."

Anti-Trust Laws To Be Considered

House Judiciary Committee To Consider Legislation To Tighten Laws

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Legislation to tighten anti-trust laws will be considered in the new congress, independent of the action of the anti-monopoly committee, chairman Hatton Sumner, (D) of Texas, of the house judiciary committee, disclosed today.

While the anti monopoly committee begins hearings soon and may make recommendations, many congressional observers believe that it cannot complete its work within the next year.

The house judiciary committee however, plans early consideration of an important proposal designed to prevent corporations from swallowing up competitors. It also may consider many other proposals to close so-called "loopholes" in the anti-trust laws.

A major proposal to be considered would prohibit a corporation from acquiring the assets of a competitor, if the merger would substantially lessen competition.

To Request Consideration

"I expect to request consideration of this matter" said Chairman Sumners. "We will look into some other matters involving the anti-trust laws."

The anti-merger proposal, Sumners added, also will be considered by the anti-monopoly committee, of which he is a member.

Under the Clayton anti-trust law, it was explained, corporations forbidden to acquire stock of competitors can circumvent the law by acquiring the assets.

A majority of big mergers now are completed by purchase of a sets, instead of stock, the federal trade commission has informed Sumners' committee.

The trade commission proposes to prohibit acquisition of assets as well as stock, when two competing corporations are brought under single control, and competition is substantially impaired.

Exemption is proposed when the merger affects less than 10 per cent of the national output of a commodity or where the financial position of one company makes a merger advisable.

Snow Storms Add Expense For Trolley Co.

Snow and ice not only increase municipal expenses but also those of the New Castle Street Electric Railway company which must call out extra employes, extra trucks and use considerable sand and salt to prevent car wheels skidding on rails.

Approximately three tons of sand and salt has been used since snow fell. Twenty-five per cent of salt is mixed with 75 per cent of sand. The salt is quite costly. Approximately 50 tons of sand and 15 tons of salt are kept in stock here.

T. C. Moore, local superintendent today warned autoists not to operate their automobiles in street car tracks. They are apt to skid when the auto operator tries to steer the auto from the tracks, he asserted.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

TRAIN CHILD EARLY

I hate to be preaching to parents all the time, but perhaps if I keep repeating that they should start as soon as their child is born to train it, the importance of this will be borne home to them.

We are all creatures of habit, every one of us. Thus if you can teach your baby good habits it will be better for him, and better for you. There are many excuses for spoiling your baby, but just don't make them, for you're only fooling yourself.

Many mothers leave too much of the actual care of their children to the maid. Now this may be all right if you are sure of your maid. But if she is incompetent she will quickly undo any good training you have been giving the little fellow.

When you engage a girl to look after your baby, look into her background. Don't just hire her because she looks capable. Assure yourself that she is the kind of person to whom you want to intrust your child. Then when you have satisfied yourself that she is a good type, have her examined by your family doctor. See that he gives her a blood test. I say this because I have known girls who actually have taught babies bad habits just to keep them quiet.

Another bad custom many parents have is that of picking the baby up every time it cries. They argue that if he or she cries, there must be something wrong. But babies like attention just the same as grown-ups. They can't talk, so they attract attention to themselves by crying. If it works, they try it again, and after a few successful "crys" they have learned a very bad habit; one which will take a great deal of trouble to break.

Now, don't misunderstand me. I don't advise that you pay no attention to your baby when it cries. There might be something really wrong with him. So when he begins to cry, look him over, see whether he is wet or uncomfortable. It won't take you long to find out when he is crying whether he has some real grievance, or whether he wants you to take him up in your arms. Just remember, if you spoil him this way he will take every advantage of you. Each time he wakens, even in the middle of the night, he will demand this attention.

Be sure to teach your child regularity in his sleeping habits. I have known many parents who would keep the baby up when he should be in bed, just because there were visitors in the house and they wanted to show him off. Or perhaps the father has been away all day, has gotten home from work late, and he wants to have a play with the child. Remember, routines should never be interfered with.

I have seen mothers who let their child learn the thumb-sucking habit because it was cutting teeth and the gums were swollen. I have even heard them say: "Oh, he looks so cute I haven't the heart to stop him! That's all very well, but thumb-sucking is not only a bad habit, but it may spoil the shape of your child's face. After he has been at it for a while, just try and stop him then. He may have been doing it only a few days, but it will take weeks of constant watching to stop him.

Yvonne has developed another trick, too. She likes hiding things on us. For instance, she took the bolts and nuts out of the window screens and hid them. And she got a big kick out of seeing us look for them.

One day recently she decided she wanted to wear her new high boots. She knew that those boots weren't on the schedule to be worn, so she got her old shoes, took the buckles off them and hid the buckles. When it came time to go out she announced that her buckles were lost so the only thing to do was for her to wear her high boots.

We knew what she was up to. We didn't let her see that we were amused by it, but we did tell her that if she couldn't find her buckles she'd have to go without her buckles.

Well, it wasn't long before Yvonne produced the buckles from where she had hidden them—in her bed.

Congress Members Head Towards National Capital

By ROBERT A. McGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The Thanksgiving holiday over, members of congress, new and old, today headed for the capital to prepare for the seventy-sixth session, facing domestic and foreign problems of serious content.

While President Roosevelt summoned his congressional leaders to Warm Springs, Ga., the vanguard of an increased Republican minority and Democratic opposition bloc gathered in Washington for pre-session conferences regarding the legislative program.

Although details of the program for 1939 were still in a nebulous state, it was apparent that anti-administration Democrats and Republicans are virtually united in demands for revision and modification of some of the chief legislative planks of the New Deal.

See Coalition

It was indicated that a large Democratic and Republican coalition stands ready to oppose passage of additional emergency legislation of far-reaching consequence should it be requested by the president.

Washington observers doubted whether anti-administration Democrats, from the south especially, would openly join in blanket agreement with Republicans, but it was pointed out that they could "co-operate" with the minority when they deemed it necessary.

Meanwhile a strong coalition in the senate and house stands ready to request revision, or modification, of such legislative measures as the Farm Act of 1938, the National Labor Relations Act, the Social Security Act, tax structures and some minor measures.

With undeclared wars raging on the right and left of the North American continent, and the general unrest in Europe, the administration's program for increased armaments was expected to meet little or no strong opposition.

Legislation to rehabilitate the nation's railroad industry is held almost a certainty. It is expected that President Roosevelt will suggest a program for the railroads soon after congress convenes in January. It is believed it will be similar to one presented in the closing days of the last session.

Chances of anti-monopoly legislation at the next session depends largely on the outcome of the congressional-departmental committee which will begin hearings December 1.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It is 48 years since Sven Hedin started back-trailing Marco Polo. It is quite possible that the historic effect of his travels will surpass the fabulous adventurer whose survey of the great transchina road has made Japan's task of strangling China so difficult.

It was in 1933 that the Chinese commissioned Dr. Sven Hedin to begin the survey. And now many hundreds of motor trucks move night and day, bringing in supplies from the Russian border-village of Chuguchak, along the old "silk road" of many centuries ago. The road is a new artery of life for China as the blockade clamps down on the coast—the Road to Samarkind.

Dr. Helin's new book, "The Silk Road", tells the tale of his first two years of danger and hardship in spying out the old caravan routes which were old long before the days of Marco Polo. The book takes its place with "The Conquest of Thibet", "Across the Gobi Desert" and other fascinating tales by glamorous explorers.

As Marco Polo lay dying in the Piazza San Marco, in the 13th century, his spiritual mentors implored him to confess and denounce his fantastic tales of the Far East. Almost in his last breath, he whispered, "I have not told the half of what I have seen."

Dr. Hedin has told the other half. He was in Thibet two years ahead of Colonel Younghusband. He adventured in disguise into the forbidden land. In the year 1896 he established his headquarters in the Khotan oasis, for a drive into the island of the hermits—"the Island of the Blue Lake". It was cupped in a rim of snow-covered peaks, rising 10,000 feet from the level plain. The hermit, Sampho Singhi, had no trousers, but he had a hand-bag caught in his belt which contained pipes, tobacco and a large pair of tweezers. Every few days he plucked his beard with the tweezers.

Dr. Hedin was captured many times by bandits, stumbled through long, hot, dry desert leagues to a green oasis. His companions died of thirst on the trail. But he had a ringside seat at blood-curdling devil dances, escaped death by an eyelash in Himalayan blizzards and blistering hot sands, and threaded his perilous way back into long-forgotten centuries where time stands still.

As arresting as H. Rider Haggard, his travel narratives are nevertheless precise, never over-written never dressed up and never challenged—always interesting, always superbly reported. His competent sketches augment the interest and value of his travel tales, and those little drawings, on occasion, saved his life. No man from Mars could have been more of a strange intruder than this white man in Thibet. It happened that a bit of swift and elaborate sketching of local celebrities allayed suspicion and established a basis for friendship.

In Dr. Hedin's youth he had planned to be an Arctic explorer, but at the age of 20 went to Baku, on the Caspian sea, as a school-teacher. Baku, gateway to the Orient, stirred his interest in the East. His first adventure was a journey through Persia and Mesopotamia on horseback, an unheard of thing in those days.

After three years in post-graduate studies at the University of Upsala and in Germany, he began a fascinating series of expeditions which have so vastly enriched our knowledge of old Asia. He grounded himself thoroughly in the sciences, and that, he believes, has served him more than anything in validating his explorations.

Rounding 70 he is still vigorous, still intent on piecing out the jigsaw puzzle of dark centuries. With his close-cropped hair, his guardsman's moustache, and his calm and precise manner, he is anything but romantic—but there is an otherworldly look in his strange drooping eyes, behind his thick-lensed glasses.

And what does he see ahead in Asia? He says just this:

"The reign of the white race in the East is coming to an end. Japan soon will dominate the Orient. Destiny seems to be driving man blindfolded to the abyss."

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

There was an old lady who lived in a shoe.

Everybody in civilized countries lives in shoes.

Except when they are in bed.

Shoes cause most of the foot ills of humanity.

Shoes are not shaped like the foot.

The normal foot broadens out from heel to toes.

Shoes narrow towards the front and the great toe is crowded.

The big toe should grip the ground in a natural manner.

It should supply a fixed point to maintain the arch of the foot.

Feet get tired, they ache, are tender or blistered.

Overuse of the feet and excessive weight cause foot strain.

Ill-fitting shoes are the chief cause of foot ills.

Friday was the last day for filing praecipes to get cases on the argument list for the December term of court.

Carpenters are engaged in repairing floors in some of the offices in the court house.

Preparatory to painting the court house bricklayers are bricking up a blind window on the west end of the court house, and tinners are putting up new spouting.

At the naturalization court closed Wednesday evening, 167 applicants were passed for final papers. Three were denied papers, and about fifty cases were continued, in order that the applicants might study up on our form of government.

Will of the late Sarah Jane McMillin has been admitted to probate by Register and Recorder Orville Potter. Decedent left all of her property, real and personal to her sister, Ella Carr who is also named as executrix.

Lawrence county is in excellent shape financially, according to a report of County Treasurer, V. I. Mandich as of November 23, when total funds stood at $638,814.76. This amount was distributed in the various departments as follows: General fund, $322,092.90; poor fund, $183,890.83; gasoline fund, $85,580.50; tax lien fund, $603.25; school and road fund, $42,660.92; part payment, tax fund, $3,986.36.

County commissioners have received an invitation to attend the third annual meeting of Municipal and Local Finance officers to be held at State College, Friday and Saturday, December 2nd and 3rd. Among the matters to be discussed will be Modern Assessment Methods, the principal speaker on this subject being Andrew J. Sterrett, city assessor of Erie. This is a subject which is receiving a great deal of attention all over the state, it being realized that the present methods of assessing by individual assessors in each district, fails to secure a uniform assessment. There are some glaring examples of the inadequacy of this system in Lawrence county. There are many who believe that there can never be a uniform assessment of county property, until the whole county is assessed by a board of assessors.

Under the will of the late Anna Plattner, which has been probated at the register and recorder's office, decedent leaves her property to be equally divided among her children. Those sharing are Matilda Bretz, Jennie Kastner, Clara Neugebauer, Agnes McNamara and Margaret Daugherty. Loyal W. Daugherty a son-in-law, is appointed executor.

Report of County Controller Frank Hill shows that during the month of October, delinquent taxes were collected by County Treasurer V. I. Mandich and turned over to the various districts of the county as follows: To City of New Castle school district, $17,790.77; Bessemer school district, $325.17; Bessemer borough, $153.71, library, $7.13.

Ellport, school $123.98, road $31.42; Ellwood City, school $724.41; South New Castle, school $223.18, road $102.39; Volant, school $14.30, road $4.67; Wampum, school $66.70, road $16.28.

Big Beaver township: school $80.48, road $63.06; Hickory, school $56.74, road $102.89; Mahoning, school $321.72, road $48; Neshannock, school $258.77, road $102.43; North Beaver, school $759.45, road $329.79; Perry, school $84.82, road $12; Pulaski, school $39.29, road $25.12; Scott, school $75.25 road, $15.13; Shenango, school $784, road $262.74; Slippery Rock, school $171.69, road $15.44; Taylor, school $25.53; Union, school $814.07, road $157.07; Washington, school $44.62, road $29.13; Wayne, school $49.03, road $90.17; Chewton Independent, school $125.94; Wilmington, school $440.31, road $210.36. Total, $25,725.58.

DEER CHASED FROM WOODS, INVADES CITY

(International News Service)

TYRONE Pa., Nov. 26—Four deer chased off a nearby hill by hunters, invaded Huntingdon, near here and created plenty of excitement in the business district. Three of the deer managed to back-track to the hills but a doe took a short cut through a window in the rear of the home of Mrs. Ella Africa, went right through the house and out a front window. The doe then wound up in the cellarway of a gas station where it was injured. A state game warden took care of the last act.

YOU MAY think you know what your house is going to cost you, but a damage suit can increase your expenses alarmingly if someone is injured on your property.

Leo Carrillo May Be 'Rich'

Oil Is Struck On Territory Adjoining His San Diego County Hacienda

By MILTON HARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26.—Leo Carrillo, the dashing movie star who owns a home, two ranches and a beach cottage in California, a Long Island, N. Y., summer home and a 56-foot cruiser, may really become rich yet.

Oil, that smelly black substance which turns paupers—and Leo is no pauper—into multi-millionaires, has been discovered on the 3,000-acre territory adjoining his San Diego county hacienda.

Whether it is there in richly paying quantity remains to be seen, but Leo informs this reporter he has sold the royalty rights to a syndicate headed by Franklin D. Baker, General Foods magnate.

One test well, says Leo, has been drilled to a depth of 1,500 feet and another is about to be started.

Leo bought this property, his pride and joy, a year and a half ago. The main house, just completed, except for its electrical equipment, is the exact duplicate of the homes of his forebears, the great Spanish Dons who settled California in the old days when men, instead of movie queens, wore baggy pants.

Leo farms and raises cattle on his 3,000 acres, which are included in a government game sanctuary.

Leo, now busy in "Fisherman's Wharf" for Sol Lesser, is happy with his crops.

"When I bought the property," Leo explains, "all the ranchers round about said, 'Ha, ha, what's this, an actor, thinking he's becoming a farmer and a rancher.' Well, I had the land plowed under as deep as your leg (this reporter is 6 foot, 3) and this year I'm getting two and a half tons of hay to the acre and they're getting half a ton. And I got 99 calfs from 100 cows and I know no one around did better."

Leo wants this reporter to go down with him next week-end to look at the oil drilling and ride the range, but maybe it would be better to stay home and cut the lawn. That at least keeps your feet on the ground.

State Of Siege In Bolivia Now

(International News Service)

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Nov. 26. — A state of siege was enforced in Bolivia today after the government crushed a subversive movement which was rumored to have been headed by powerful mining interests.

It was rported that an army leader, General Penarando, led the abortive uprising.

Authorities put the state of siege into effect despite the fact that they announced, in an official communique, that quiet had been restored throughout the country.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 26.—Some of the drama which was expected at the opening of the house investigation into graft charges and was then absent, was present when Gov. George H. Earle at long last took the witness stand in defense of himself and his administration...the throng rose en masse to its feet as the governor entered the house chamber to be sworn in....The token of respect to the governor of the commonwealth is given each time he appears in the house.... This week's probably was his last, and the public will so demonstrate its recognition of high office next time under different circumstances—at the inauguration January 17 when Gov.-Elect James will be the principal figure.

By the wave of applause which swept the hall on one occasion following a remark by the governor it was assumed that most if not all of the audience was made up of loyal Democrats....present to hear the governor testify were Mrs. Earle, their son, George H. Earle, IV, the governor's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ohomas Wickersham, members of the cabinet, public utility commissioners, and other state officials.

But not all the spectators present were Democratic officials and Democratic partisans....Seen in the forefront of the hall were Earl Compton and Samuel Handler, two of the assistants of District Attorney Carl B. Shelley, who will soon begin his own investigation of the Earle administration...Also present was Maj. Lynn G. Adams, former head of the state police and now chief investigator for Shelley.

The majority piled up by Governor-Elect Arthur H. James over his Democratic opponent, Charles Alvin Jones, estimated at some 289,000 votes, is said to be the largest with one exception in 52 years...That one exception was the 737,000 majority given Gov. John S. Fisher in 1926....Since the civil war there has only been two Democratic governors, Robert E. Pattison, who was elected in 1882 and 1890, and George H. Earle, elected in 1934....It is interesting to note, however, that in 1910 when Gov. John K. Tener defeated the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Berry, by 33,000 votes, an independent Democratic candidate received 129,000 votes, which if added to Berry's total gave an actual Democratic majority of 96,000.... Earle was elected by 66,000 votes.

Other large Republican pluralities of recent years include: 241,000 for Hastings in 1894; 142,000 for Pennypacker in 1902; 134,000 for Brumbaugh in 1914; 247,000 for Sprowles in 1918; 250,000 for Pinchot in 1922.

If the solons aren't too tired and too anxious to call it quits, some Republican shouting may be heard in house or senate over the new curtailment of WPA employment... 15,000 to 20,000 are to be dropped. WPA Administrator Hudson announced..GOP legislators, of course, do not oppose WPA reductions... What they are likely to shout about is their contention in the recent campaign that pre-election WPA increases were made for political purposes to favor the Democrats...In any event, the increases had no appreciable effect on the election outcome.

Capitol prognosticators are having their usual merry whirl at guessing who James' appointees will be ...Here's a few of them: Dr. A. H. Stewart, Indiana, for secretary of health; Geo. H. Biles, Philadelphia, for secretary of highways; Maj. Lynn G. Adams for superintendent of the Pennsylvania motor police.

As forecast months ago by International News Service, the plan to construct from 700 to 1,000 new schoolhouses and to inaugurate a new general state authority program will not go through—at least not this year...From Washington the PWA has announced that all but a few thousands of its $924,000,000 fund has already been allotted.

AROUND CITY HALL

Mayor Charles E. McGrath and councilmanic colleagues are giving thought to needs of the city for 1939. As a result Finance Director James L. Fink has sharpened his pencil and within the near future will give colleagues a picture of present finances, what the city hopes to collect in taxes next year and also estimated receipts in 1939. So far the city dads have not expressed themselves relative to what equipment they would like to have Santa Claus bring them for 1939. However, it is a certainty that in view of conditions they will not indulge in any spending orgy.

Wayne Sines, police bureau radio technician, not only is skilled in radio work but is also a fisherman and hunter. However, this year he hopes to emulate the feat of the almost now extinct Redskin and bring down a deer with bow and arrow. Several months ago Wayne manufactured his own bow and arrows and since has been practicing marksmanship. When the antlerless deer season is ushered in Monday morning, Sines may be found on watch waiting for some doe to come prancing in front of a drive. If he succeeds in bringing down a doe with a bow and arrow he will bring the doe to the city.

Chief of police Ralph A. Criswell today warned merchants to not cash checks for strangers. "It may seem peculiar, but the fact remains, that this warning is issued often. However, some merchants pay small heed and as a result are sometimes fleeced," he declared.

The chief said that one of the games worked by bunco artists is for the confidence man to enter a store make purchases then offer a check for a larger amount. He leaves instructions where the articles should be sent then collects the difference between the cost of the articles and the amount of the check. The merchant discovers he has been fleeced when the occupant of a residence refuses to accept goods or the bank returns the check marked "No account." By this time the bunco man is a hundred miles away.

Police Lieutenant Cecil F. Suber today issued a few "Don't" for persons who hope to prevent burglaries in their homes. They follow:

Don't leave notes in letter-boxes, doors and milk bottles containing messages for persons. This notifies a burglar the home is not occupied.

Don't install any except a good type of window-fastener. Door chains are good insurance.

Don't pull down window blinds when leaving for a trip South. Leave shades up. Stop deliveries and have a trusted person keep watch on the house.

Don't extinguish all lights when home is vacant at night. Leave a light burning. One not knowing the habits of the residents may not know the place is unoccupied.

Don't give information regarding your neighbor's movements to strangers.

Chief of detectives Ray Showalter today urged that all persons be decidedly cautious during the holiday season because pickpockets may enter the city at any time and attempt to rob shoppers.

"Don't carry a large amount of money and never lay down your pocketbook on a store counter. Do not display your money any more than necessary," the detectives' chief warned.

"Pickpockets usually operate in threes. One jostles a person, the second picks pocket or purse and the third, when given the money or purse, quickly disappears in a crowd.

"His first act is to get rid of the pocketbook. Generally people do not keep a check in regard to the denomination of bills. They should.

"Do not delay if you are a victim of a pickpocket. Report immediately by telephone or personal visit to police headquarters. Give as accurate a description of a suspect as possible" he stated.

"No one should travel through alleys if they have valuable jewelry or 'bank rolls' on them" said George S. Kennedy, lieutenant of police, in assisting in mapping out plans as to how best guard the public against thefts during the holiday periods.

"Some people, imbued with the holiday spirit, makes valuable purchases then visit into some place for a few drinks. Some times they imbibe too much and a 'finger man' on the streets points out they have valuable possessions. When a dark place is reached the man is likely to be held up, robbed and in some cases assaulted."

Most stores in the city will have detectives on guard during the holiday season to prevent shoplifting which it may be said, costs merchants considerable. Clerks are also advised at this time of year to be very alert for possible shoplifting.

Hangar Nearing Completion At Local Airport

Expect To Begin Work On Another Hangar In Near Future Is Report

Work will soon be completed on the new airplane hangar now under construction by Findley C. Wilson, at the local airport. The hangar, started several weeks ago, took shape quite rapidly and within the next week or 10 days it will undoubtedly be completed.

This new structure will be used to hour the plane of Wilson. There will be three rooms in the building, one to store the ship, a field office and a storeroom for flying supplies.

From the field office, activities of the flying field will be handled and records kept in permanent style.

According to reports it is expected that another hangar, of similar size will be constructed in a short time. This hangar will be built by William Ice to protect his airplane from the weather.

The new hangar has been built near the site of the old building that was torn down several years ago. It is near the new runways, now under construction at the port, and also faces the grass strip runway, now being used by the pilots.

Bodies Removed From Cemetery In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—Work of removing bodies in the Lincoln cemetery was resumed today after a conference of interested persons and organizations resulted in a compromise of objections over the manner of clearing the cemetery so the land may be used for the city's new housing project.

Representatives of the American Legion and the Negro community objected to the use of a steam shovel in clearing away the ground because many of the bodies were buried at less than the prescribed six feet and hence caskets were broken open. The housing authority has agreed to use the shovel only to strip away a thin layer of dirt from the top and use hand shovels for further digging. A contract so stipulating was filed with the court. The cemetery was originally founded for Negro veterans of the civil war.

Police Shiver As Result Of Error By Superintendent

Pittsburgh Police Official Forgot To Issue Orders To Cops To Wear Overcoats

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—The face of Assistant Superintendent of Police Andrew Charles was a bright apple red today but it wasn't from the cold.

Charles failed to notice winter was here until about 4 p. m. yesterday afternoon.

And meanwhile all the cops in town were shivering to their bones in their autumn uniforms, unable to don Overcoats because no official order so permitting had been issued by Charles whose job it is to issue such orders.

So Charles issued the order when the sight of an overcoat on a disobedient patrolman suddenly reminded him winter was here. The telephone companies did a land office business and then there was a traffic rush downtown as all the Juniors and their mothers dashed down to the city street corners with winter overcoats for the cops.

Lawrence County Amateur Boxers Battle Monday

Ferarr, Chambers And Clark To Meet Foes In Arena Ring

OUT-OF-TOWN FAVORITES BOOKED

There may be more highly reputed fistic performers than the amateurs who appear here but it is a truism that one may journey thither or yon and not find any more action. Because of this it is probable that when the amateurs trade punches again Monday night in The Arena the place will be packed with fans who like to see well known performers in pugilistic combat.

One of the features of the coming show is the presence of Lawrence county amateur battlers. And to add to this will be the presence of the baby-faced, quick-jabbing and fast-sidestepping Regis O'Brien; Muddy Kurtz, the rope-seizing, ducking, laugh-maker, and the rugged, hard-punching Steve Kawalik.

The county scrappers, Buck Chambers of West Pittsburg, Blackie Ferarr of the South Side, this city, and Frankie Clark of Bessemer, were given assignments because of their conscientious efforts and O'Brien, Kowalik and Kurtz were handed a place on the fight docket because of the request of fans who like the trio.

Here are the assignments for the Lawrence county fighters:

Blackie Ferarr of New Castle vs Eli Cerak, Midland, 130 pounds.

Buck Chambers, West Pittsburg, vs Herb Knoll, McKeesport, 165 pound.

Frankie Clark, Bessemer, vs Dom Delander, Alliance, 120 pounds.

The other fighters called back by popular demand will line up as follows:

Muddy Kurtz, McKeesport vs Art Tangi, Alliance, 145 pounds.

Regis O'Brien, McKeesport vs Reggie Renault, Alliance, 135 pounds.

Steve Kowalik, Pittsburgh vs Frankie Genaro, Youngstown, 150 pounds.

Blackie Ferarr has fought two fights and have met these experience ropes to do well against Eli Corak of Midland who is taught by Pete Portesy, pro flyweight reversal ace back, who battled in the Jolly boy.

Buck Chambers showed a lot of viciousness in his contest with George Swatkvic some weeks ago and hopes to say it decidedly strong with gloves when he takes on Herb Knoll, a newcomer from Alliance.

Ex-Soldier On Docket

Frankie Clark wants to show that he can do much better than he did in his first trip into the Arena ring when he meets Tom Delander, a stablemate of Knoll. Clark recently served out an enlistment in the Army and now wants to fight in a glove brigade.

While many may look upon Muddy Kurtz as a clownish fighter the fact remains he is a tricky individual. Many times when in danger he has worked the ropes and extricated himself out of hot predicaments. He should give Art Tangi, Alliance, plenty of trouble.

No more popular boy has fought here than Regis O'Brien. In fact one wonders how a chap with such a baby-face and curley locks could be so eager to knock out an opponent. However, they have seen him try to do this, yet refuse to back away. He will exchange blows with a recent winner, Reggie Renault of Alliance.

Steve Kowalik and Frankie Genaro are dockeited for three rounds of slugging, likewise Sully Tonti, Midland, who will meet Nick Cottage of Alliance and Sharkey Schreckengost of New Brighton and Roy Walters of Alliance.

The Jefferson A. C. has added more floor seats, believing that the local flavor, plus the presence of "demand fighters" will prove more attractive than some past bills. With slugging scheduled to predominate indications from advance reservations indicate a capacity crowd.

Army And Navy Teams Battling

Annual Classic Between U. S. Service Teams Held In Philadelphia

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—Before notables from all over the nation, including admirals, generals, statesmen, the Army mule and the Navy goat, the United States Military Academy met the United States Naval Academy here today in the 39th renewal of a traditional service rivalry, a battle witnessed by the biggest crowd of the current football season—102,000 chilblain-stricken spectators.

The greatest football show on earth was a sellout weeks ago, and today the speculators defied snow and ice and everything else, including hard times, in their subtle demands that you pay $35.00 for a pair of choice seats, which did not include the necessary blanket, goloshes and mackintosh.

Football Day

This was the football day of days insofar as the east was concerned, and the battle between two beaten elevens still retained, as usual, all its color to intrigue the populace for miles around. Nothing approaches it, although the Army should win with customary ease.

Nobody seems to pay a great deal of attention as to who will win or lose, as long as they get a show and this is assured. A parade by 1,850 Cadets from West Point and 2,000 midshipmen was scheduled as part of the festivities.

Meanwhile, a corps of workmen were busy in the Sesqui-Centennial, or municipal stadium, brushing and shoveling away the snow and ice to make way for the contest. Seemingly it will be a bitter battle, with weather conditions making it all the tougher.

Titular Grid Game On Sunday

Jeffs And Fardales Will Battle For Championship Of South Side

The championship of the South Side will be at stake Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when the Jeffersons tangle with the Fardale eleven on Resena grounds.

The two teams boast of several former New Castle high stars. Frank Copple and Raymond Micaletti are with the Jeffs, while Chuck Tuscano and Chuck Cialella will wear the Fardale colors. The two clubs are even stephen. The Fardales copped a 13-6 decision in 1936, while the Jeffs annexed a 13-7 triumph last year.

The starting lineup as announced by Coaches Mash and Andy Esposito:

RAMBLERS WILL PLAY

NEW INDUSTRY RISES
(International News Service)

BREVARD, N. C.—A new industry will begin operating in America next spring upon completion by the Ecusta Paper Corp. of a $2,000,000 plant here for the manufacture of cigarette paper. At present, almost all the paper used in U. S.-made cigarettes is imported from France.

13-IN ONE CLOCK
(International News Service)

BOSTON — A timepiece that contains thirteen clocks attracted more than its usual share of attention during the recent international crisis. Brought from Liverpool, England, 62 years ago, the thirteen-in-one clock gives the local time while twelve smaller clocks which dot its face at regular intervals supply the correct time of a dozen principal cities in the world.

How do you know Communists would overthrow the government by force. Well, how do you know a particular fox would do any harm in your henhouse?

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Sport paragraf . . . New Castle and Sharon set some kind of a record in their "snow bowl" game, Turkey Day. The shivering fans got lots of punting for their money, 43 in all. Sharon went air-minded, 28 times while the "Hurricanes" stuck to the ground, refusing to even flip one pass. Those Wabash Bears showed the fans a thing or two about laterals against the Brown Bombers. It was a honey of a battle between two first class Independent clubs . . .

Bessemer high plays 17 basketball contests this season. The season opener, December 10, brings the Red and Black clad cagers against Adams Township, at Bessemer. A packed house is expected to watch the New Castle Boosters open the season against the Youngstown Sheet and Tube outfit, tomorrow afternoon. "Bus" Reiber, a member of the Duquesne Freshmen basketball outfit, says the varsity crew "has it" this year. Paul Eagan, who recently watched Notre Dame pound sand down the necks of the Minnesota Gophers, believes the Irish to be the best gridiron combination in the land . . .

A dash of this and that . . . I suppose you noticed that Army scored its first win over Princeton in 45 years last Saturday. Dom Roselli, one of the smallest gridders to ever wear a Geneva college moleskin, is regarded as one of the most popular athletes in 25 years. Johnny Vander Meer, two time no-hit no-run specialist, is selling automobiles. When business is slow, he steps into the back room and turns auto mechanic. During the past sandlot season, Lefty Grove and Mel Harder did not lose a season series to any club . . .

Bits of sports news . . . Its generally accepted that the Pennsylvania coal regions turns out the best football material in the country. Within a couple of weeks, the most valuable football player in the country will be named. I selected Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian, Larry Kelly and Clint Frank, both of Yale, won in 1936 and 37 respectively. Jay Berwanger, one man team of Chicago, was the initial winner in 1935 . . . .

Odds and ends in the sports world . . . Eddie Froelick, Chicago Blackhawk trainer, keeps tab of all stitches he has made in athletic wounds. So far, the list is 483. Claude "Little Monk" Simmons, Jr., coaches Tulane's basketball team while his dad instructs the boxing team and acts as chief athletic trainer. At the University of Michigan football field, player benches are situated in the stands instead of on the sidelines.

This business of picking football winners is getting to be a soft touch. A week ago, I missed six for the day, and Turkey Day, I picked 17 out of 20, excluding ties. To date, its 264 out of 318, for a percentage well past the .800. Selah! Selar! Selah!

Basketball Season Makes Debut Here On Sunday Afternoon

TWO CONTESTS WILL BE PLAYED

New Castle's 1938-39 basketball team opens Sunday afternoon, on The Arena floor, with a pair of top-notch battles.

New Castle Boosters quintet, one of the fastest combinations organized in a decade, will make its debut by battling the crack Youngstown Sheet and Tube cagers. Coach Fris Fraser has been drilling the local aggregation for the past several weeks. The local starting lineup will be selected from the following roster: Johnny Uram, "Blackie" Neeera, "Chink" Dutkin, "Pop" Adams, Paul Morrisen, Tom Carey, Elmer Wainio, Frances "Slim" Wainio, Emil Gremmes, Gilliland, Hutchison and John Carik. The squad represents the most formidable array of cagers in the county.

The Boosters are prepared for a busy season again a dozen or more crack organizations, including college quintets, semi-pros, as well as professional teams. Coach Fraser did not announce his starting lineup today.

The Youngstowners have ranked high in basketball circles for the past several seasons. Several former stars of Westminster fame will be in the Ohioan's lineup. Demo, Backus and Sweeney, three of the classiest sphere handlers in the history of the college will play here. The Boosters will start play shortly after a brief program, starting at 2:15 o'clock.

Tomorrow also marks the opening of the City Basketball League and brings together the Gersons, champs of the City Basketball Tournament last year, and the popular Keystone A. C. aggregation. These two rivals are expected to stage an unusually thrilling tussle. The preliminary game starts at 1:30 o'clock.

Ambers Is Next For Armstrong

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Promoter Mike Jacobs today announced that Henry Armstrong, who last night successfully defended his welterweight title against Ceferino Garcia, will make his next start late in February or early in March when he will defend his lightweight title against Lou Ambers.

Ambers, who lost the lightweight crown to Armstrong in a close fight, saw the battle last night and is more confident than ever that he can reverse the decision at their next meeting.

Meadville First For High Quint

New Castle High Basketball Team Will Get Down To Work On Monday

The New Castle high school basketball squad will get down to serious work on Monday afternoon in preparation for the opening of the pre-season games that will take them to Meadville, Pa., on December 13.

Many of the football boys will report on Monday, it is believed, or it may be that Coach Bridenbaugh will give the boys who played football this past season a longer rest.

Need Whole New Team

Having lost all of the first team by graduation, Koszela, Carey, Marvin, Strausbaugh, Sniezek and Nocera, the coaches face a tough task to select another first string team.

At the moment it looks as if Bombyk will handle the center post with Davey Greer going after a forward job, and with Bill Campbell hoping to cop a guard spot. Eddie "Flash" Wenda is a very likely starter at one of the forwards or possibly at guard, being one of the reserve stars of last year.

There are about 25 out for basketball at the present time and have been coached by Ralph Gardner, Bridenbaugh and Thomas will take over the reins on Monday, it is believed.

Here And There In Sports' Land

Judge Joseph A. Murphy, one of the country's best known turf officials, has resigned as a race director at the Detroit Fair Grounds, a position he has held since pari-mutual betting on horses was legalized in Michigan in 1933. He is 79.

Joe Donnelly, 59, of Pittsburgh, is dead. In his early days he was a hockey star and later became an announcer and also a referee of boxing. He was well known here, having came here often as a sport goods salesman. He refereed the Sammy Trott-Battling Terry and Tommy Jones-Battling Terry fights in the Humbert hall about 25 years ago. He had been ill only a short time. He is survived by two daughters.

Deer Hunters Given Warning

Are Asked To Cooperate With Game Commission During Antlerless Season

SEASON WILL START MONDAY

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 26.—Colonel Nicholas Biddle, president of the State Game commission, has urged all hunters to cooperate during the antlerless deer season, Nov. 28-Dec. 3 inclusive, by concentrating their hunting activities in and around forested areas adjacent to farmlands, and to those forest regions where deer are entirely too abundant for their own welfare.

Biddle said that by confining their efforts to such areas hunters will help both to alleviate the deer damage problem and to reduce the herd commensurate with the food supply.

The Dauphin county court recently dismissed injunction proceedings brought by sportsmen from nearby York-Adams-Franklin counties to prohibit the open season.

Biddle also asked hunters to be careful of firearms, to wear plenty of red, not to shoot too close to CCC camps or WPA road projects, to be sure to sign their licenses and to carry additional positive identification with them, to be possessed of the prescribed roster when hunting in camps or parties, to tag their deer promptly after they kill it, and to cooperate by reporting infractions of the law to the nearest game protector.

There is no reason, the game president said, why the coming deer season should not be one of the safest and most successful Pennsylvania has ever had.

He warned hunters to remember that the deer season this year begins at 7 o'clock in the morning of the first day, not 9 o'clock as applied during the small game season.

Kane Prepares For Winter Sports

Hope For Real Winter Of Snow And Ice After Two Disappointing Seasons

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Nov. 26.—Despite two consecutive disappointing seasons, residents in this vicinity today were making elaborate plans for a winter sports program which would attract tourists from far and wide.

With the annual Thanksgiving day skiing tradition remaining unbroken, although there was but five inches of snow on the ground, workers were heartened by the sight of skiiers sliding down slopes in this section of the state, and at Big Gusty hill, one mile from town, the Kane Ski Club formally opened its new hut with an open house.

Hill Is Smoothed

The big Gusty hill has been smoothed of hummocks to make it suitable for skiing on a light snow, and a power tow has been placed in operation there to haul skiers to the top of the slope.

At the Allegheny national forest, workers are increasing the grade of the watermill race, a one-mile down mountain ski run five miles north of town, and are installing several miles of trails at Twin Lakes forest camp, seven miles south of Kane.

Crystal Springs Park, three miles south of Kane, was reported improving its toboggan slides and ski hill. It also has trails and a skating pond.

The western Pennsylvania winter sports carnival will be held here February 3 to 12, with championships of the Niagara Frontier Ski Council as one of the features, it was reported.

WILL PLAY TONIGHT

The Len's basketball team of the city league will play the Alumni team tonight at the Arena floor at 6:30 o'clock in a warm-up for the league battles next week.

The Len's will have the following men in the lineup tonight: DeCaprio, Vi Adamo, Rozak at center, Pascarelli and Greg Ross on the guards. The Alumni will use: Peachy Fornataro, Dundo Ambrosia, Dom Scarnati, Ray Campoli, Jimmy Germanino, Gus Fornataro, Oscar Fornataro, Jimmy Pauline, Clyde Stefano, Paul Faiella and others.

Church Quintets Are Classified, To Play Monday

After considerable deliberation last night at the "Y" the New Castle Church league teams were classified. The loop goes back into action Monday night with three games on the bill.

The following classifications were made in the AA League—Epworth M. E., First Christians, First Baptist, Central Presbyterians, and Third U. P. In the A league will be First M. E., Madison Avenue Christians, St. Vitus, Greek Orthodox, Mahoning, First Presbyterians, and Second U. P.

The card for Monday night will be:

First Baptists vs. First Christians.

Madison Avenue Christians vs. Third U. P.

Greek Orthodox vs. Central Presbyterians.

Changes Made In Fish Code

Commissioner Of Fisheries Announces Two Changes In Fish Code For 1939

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 26—Two important changes in the 1939 fish code were announced today by Commissioner of Fisheries C. A. French.

The changes, approved by the board of fish commissioners set up by the last regular session of the legislature, were:

1—Reduction of the legal size limits of smallmouth and large mouth bass from 10 inches minimum to nine inches minimum.

2—Decrease in the limit of bait from 50 to 35.

Will Save Bass

French declared that he hoped that injury to bass would be lessened through the establishment of the nine inch minimum. Last year, he said, many bass just short of legal size were injured seriously and considerable loss in the species occurred.

In addition, next year a fisherman may have in his possession at any one time 25 fish bait or 35 bait fish, instead of 50 permitted in each classification last year. He will be permitted, however, French said, to have 50 of the combined species of bait fish and fish bait on any one day. French said this reduction in limits on bait fish and fish bait was made necessary owing to greatly increased stocking of bass, dependent upon this type of forage, coincident with a vast increase in the number of fishermen during the past two years.

The Pulaski team is being coached by Walter Sniezek and Joe Augustine, the latter a former Falcon star will also be used at center. Henry Armstrong Defeats Garcia, Keeps His Title

Welterweight Crown Still Worn By Colored Fighter From California

GARCIA LACKS KNOCKOUT PUNCH

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK Nov. 26.—Henry Armstrong is still welterweight champion of the world today. But only because Ceferino Garcia, the furile Filipino, is one of the slowest thinkers who ever drew on a boxing glove.

In three separate rounds Garcia had the champion staggering under a fusillade of rights and lefts to the head but each time the Filipino let him get away because he couldn't seem to make up his mind to throw a finisher.

Not Very Exciting

At rare intervals the fight bordered on the sensational but for most of the 15-round route it was no more exciting than a sewing bee in an old ladies home.

The few thrills for the 15,725 who paid $79,931 to see the affair and who roundly booed the fight—not the decision—came when Garcia elected to stand off and wallop the champion.

This was particularly true in the 12th round when Garcia suddenly came to life, and shot a looping right to Armstrong's head that spun the champion against the ropes and drove him half way to the floor.

Close To Knockout

Here, as in the sixth and seventh—both storm-tossed sessions for Armstrong—it seemed as if Garcia would win by a knockout. But each time the Filipino seemed to be having trouble making up his mind about throwing a finishing punch and by the time he had decided on the proper course, the wonderful recuperative powers of Armstrong had asserted themselves and he jumped in close and held on.

Armstrong came back so well in fact, that after being almost out on his feet early in the seventh, he rallied to stagger Garcia and actually win the round. It was a stranger sight to see the champion staggering and holding on for dear life. It was even stranger to see him winding up with both lips cut and his left eye, not only cut, but completely closed. Garcia, as usual, finished with both his eyebrows slashed.

Armstrong won because he is smarter rather than a better mechanical fighter. Although he scaled only 134 to Garcia's 140½, the little terror actually bulled the Filipino around the ring and made him fight his way.

Glenn Kearns Dies Friday At Franklin

Zelienople Bus Driver Stricken Tuesday Night On Completion Of Trip

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 26.—Becoming ill Tuesday night as he completed his bus run from Pittsburgh, Glenn Kearns, aged 26, of Zelienople, died in the Franklin hospital at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

When his condition became serious an emergency oxygen tent was set up and for a time he seemed to respond to the treatment. Shortly after noon, however, he grew weaker and he died at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Kearns, who leaves his wife and three-year-old daughter, was known as one of the most genial bus operators on the Harmony Line. He had had a daily run between Oil City and Pittsburgh for more than a year. He became ill when the bus reached Franklin Tuesday evening and retired to bed at a local hotel. He did not summon a physician until the following morning, and it then was decided his condition required hospital treatment.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kearns, of Zelienople; his wife, Muriel, and daughter, Patricia; also two brothers and one sister. He was born at Swissvale, Pa., on December 4, 1912. He had been in the employ of the Harmony Line for three years.

Back In U. S. To Stay Says Former Noted Movie Star

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26.—On a movie call sheet today there appeared the name of Henry Victor. The call sheet was for "Hotel Imperial," the initial American picture of Isa Miranda, and a number of other names better known to the American public than that of Victor were on it too. That very fact was somewhat of an irony.

About six years ago, Victor's name would have been the best known on the call sheet. But a cataclysm of American business and banking intervened. Several years ago, Victor came to Hollywood from the English stage and screen and rapidly became a "big name." He played leading roles in a number of pictures and was on the verge of stardom. Then the stock market broke and in 1933 every bank in the country closed. It was at that time that Victor's permit of entry into the country expired.

Washington was so busy with the disaster to banking and business that the application of an English actor for an extension of his permit and a quota number seemed silly and trifling. So Victor had to go back to England.

When he decided to return to this country he was determined to reenter on a permanent basis. He arrived in New York about a month ago. He was so delighted at his return to America that he bought an automobile and drove across country reveling in its scenery and wonder spots. He finally arrived in Hollywood and two days later was grabbed for the role of Sultanov in "Hotel Imperial."

"I'm turning to character acting now," Victor said. "The six years cost me stardom as a leading man as I would have too much competition to make up the time that I have lost.

"A character actor is always in demand and I am entering that field.

"But I'll tell you one thing. I'm in America to stay. The most striking thing to me when I arrived in America was the difference in the faces of people in New York and in Europe.

"In Europe if an airplane flies through the sky, people look up with a sort of worried expression as if it were something ominous. In New York, if an airplane flew overhead, someone might glance up out of curiosity but most people paid no attention to it.

"I'm applying for my citizenship papers as soon as I can."

Postage Worth $23,000 Ready For Yule Mailing

New Castle mailers shouldn't find a scarcity of postage stamps when they go about their Christmas holiday mailing—the New Castle post office has called for almost $23,000 worth for the yuletide business.

Assistant Postmaster James G. Leslie let it be known today the order he placed amounted to $22,509.16.

"That's our order for the October-November-December quarter," he explained. "We buy by quarters—but the Christmas quarter, of course, is the big one."

It so happens, Leslie pointed out, that the post office needed no additional one-half, one-and-a-half or two-cent stamps for the Christmas quarter this year because the third-quarter surplus was larger than usual. So the $22,509 order represents an outlay for postage stamps of every other denomination except those three popular groups.

The assistant postmaster also said the order excludes penny postal cards and air mail stamps.

A. F. Of L. Threatens To Walk Through C.I.O. Picket Lines

Air Of Tension Hangs Over Stockyards In Chicago Strike

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—An air of tension hung over the stockyards here today, threatening the success of a mediation meeting called by United States labor conciliators seeking to end the C. I. O. strike of livestock handlers which began Monday.

The tension was caused by the announcement of A. F. of L. livestock handlers that they would walk through the C. I. O.'s picket lines and go back to work. It was not known whether the federation's "back to work" attempt would be made today or Monday.

The stockyard management, however, said no effort will be made to resume activity at the yards—largest in the world—until Monday.

Arranged by Robert Mythen and W. H. Rodgers, government mediators, the first meeting between the management and CIO representatives was scheduled for today. It was feared that should the A. F. of L. handlers try to enter the yards, the meeting would fail in the resulting excitement. CIO spokesmen assert the A. F. of L. handlers represent "scab labor."

Both sides to the controversy predicted violence should the picket breaking attempt be made.

The walkout Monday came when the CIO's packing house workers organizing committee claimed the management had refused to negotiate for a new contract after the old arrangement expired. The management denied it had been approached by the CIO for a contract, which the union demands must include a closed shop clause

Stock Market Trend Lower

Flurries Of Selling Are Features Of Closing Hour This Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The stock market weakened in final dealings today under flurries of selling, which brought losses of 1 to more than 2 points and forced the ticker behind.

Earlier the list had displayed fixed tendencies in extremely quiet dealings.

The British pound again reached a new low on the move, slipping under $4.63 for a loss of almost a point. Most other foreign currencies, including the French franc, also were under moderate pressure.

The market was mixed at the opening, but selling appeared midway through the session, bringing a predominately lower trend in final dealings.

Transamerica slumped more than 2 points to a new 1938 low of 6½ on news of the S. E. C. investigation. Dunhill lost almost as much, this reflecting the stock exchange's probe of recent strength and activity.

U. S. Steel, U. S. Rubber, Chrysler and Boeing were among the leaders to lose a point or more.

In conjunction with the live stock show is the twentieth annual international hay and grain show, which has been expanded during the years until it now features a score of farm products. Forty-one foreign nations are represented in samples on display, while the United States, Canada and Australia are competing for the honor of claiming the wheat king title, coveted around the world by wheat growers. The reighning wheat king is Gordon Gibson of Ladner, B. C.

Snyder Lays Trial Plans

Martin 'Colonel Gimp' Snyder Faces Three Serious Charges Result Of Shooting

WOUNDED MAN WAS MYRL S. ALDERMAN

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Free on $40,000 bail, Martin (Col. Gimp) Snyder, former husband of Ruth Etting, radio singer, today prepared for his coming trial on charges of attempting to murder Myrl S. Alderman during a row between himself, Alderman and Miss Etting.

He was scheduled to appear December 8, following his plea of not guilty which he entered yesterday to an amended grand jury indictment seeking to clarify legal technicalities growing out of the shooting last October 15.

Supplies Bail

When he entered his plea, bail was raised from $25,000 to $40,000 but Snyder promptly supplied it.

In the original indictment, Snyder was charged with three separate counts of criminal law violation, namely:

1. Kidnaping Alderman, Miss Etting and Edith Snyder, his daughter.
2. Attempted murder of Alderman.
3. Possession of a revolver.

The new indictment charged, in addition to these allegations, the kidnaping of Alderman and the attempted murder of Miss Etting and Miss Snyder.

Snyder assertedly forced Alderman to drive to the Etting home where he attempted to persuade Miss Etting to leave Alderman and return to him.

Alderman, 30, a song writer, was seriously wounded in the shooting that followed.

He admitted having served time in a Virginia penal institution.

SPARK CAUSES FIRE

Firemen were called to Conn's Welding shop, 109-15 North Diamond Way, at 2:45 o'clock Friday afternoon, where a spark from an electric welding outfit set fire to debris in a pit. Employes of the company had the fire out by the time firemen arrived at the scene. There was no loss.

Americanism: Worrying because we haven't trained mechanics to build guns and planes; worrying because our young men can find nothing to do.

The tragedy of a dead little town is that smart, ambitious boys move away, while the dull, lazy and vicious ones remain to make it worse.

Traffic Jam In Washington, D. C.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—More than 15,000 people, fighting their way afoot or in street cars and automobiles to get to work or to the Army and Navy game in Philadelphia, today created one of the worst traffic snarls in the city's history in the vicinity of Union Station.

Extra details of police rushed to the scene as all movement almost ceased for blocks around the station.

Thousands of those who arrived late for their destinations sought to board the 15 special trains for the Quaker City, all of which pulled out between 8 and 9:30 a. m. Hundreds missed the flyers, milling about until they could get accommodations on regular trains.

Too Much Mud, No Grid Game

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — For the second time this year a football game was called off here today because of mud.

The Catholic University-South Carolina game was postponed until Monday because the field was so sloppy that it was impossible even to mark it.

The George Washington University-Mississippi game was postponed earlier in the season because of similar conditions.
